Total Boox for Libraries

Android & Kindle Fire Application User Guide

Provided by support@totalboox.com

app version 1.4.1.48
Step 1:
Download the app from Google Play or Amazon Appstore

Kindle Fire: follow the link bit.ly/TBX-Amazon
Android devices: follow the link bit.ly/TBX-GooglePlay or search for “Total Boox for library patrons”
Step 2: Log in

Select your library, enter your library card ID and password (or PIN)
Step 3: Tap Get Books to browse our collection and download books.

Prefer to use your desktop? Here is an alternative: open your browser, go to totalboox.com, log in and explore our catalog through the website.
Browse the catalog

Swipe up and down to discover categories

Swipe sideways to scroll through shelves
Browse categories

More than 40,000 titles available from leading publishers, there is a book for everyone!

Just tap the category/subcategory and explore our selection. Tap download to download a book and keep browsing.
Download shelves (collections)

Tap Shelves from the top bar to browse shelves. Swipe up and down to discover more shelves. Tap Download shelf to download the complete shelf instantly.
Search a title

Do you have something specific on your mind? Tap Search and type in the title or keyword.
Done with downloading?
Tap My Library to get back to your library. The books you chose will already appear on your device.
* Notice that some shelves may take longer to download. The blue arrow indicates that the book is still downloading.
Step 4:
Tap the book cover to read, copy to another shelf, or delete this title from your library.
Organize your shelves

Drag and drop a book to move it to a different shelf.
Create a new shelf

Tap the + icon at the bottom of the screen to create a new shelf. Type in a name and description.
Remove a shelf created by another user

Tap the 3 dots next to the shelf name and choose Unfollow to remove this shelf.
Edit a shelf you created

Tap the 3 dots next to the shelf.

Choose Publish to make it available for other users.

Choose Edit to add or remove items.

Choose Delete to remove this shelf.
While reading, tap the screen to access the toolbar.

Tap 1\textsuperscript{st} icon to get back to your library.
Tap 2\textsuperscript{nd} icon to browse table of contents and skip to another chapter.
Tap 3\textsuperscript{rd} icon to change font size.
Tap 4\textsuperscript{th} icon to browse your bookmarks.
Tap 5\textsuperscript{th} icon to add a bookmark. Tap again to remove the bookmark.

Move the cursor to skip to another position. Tap the back arrow to return to your previous position.

raining. Not an ardent shower, but a soft, mild veil of summer rain; the water from the roof dripped at their feet. U May leaned forward so that it rained onto his bald head, running down his neck and back. He drew his pupil out with him. The water ran down Tin Win’s forehead, cheeks, and nose. He opened his mouth and stuck out his tongue. The rain was warm and a little salty.

“So what are you afraid of?” U May asked him.

“Why do you think I’m afraid?”

“Your voice.”

Of course U May was right, but Tin Win didn’t know what he was afraid of; it was almost always there, pursuing him like a shadow on a sunny day. Sometimes it was
THANK YOU

... and ENJOY READING

For further assistance, please contact support@totalboox.com